Accommodation options

There are various hotels of different price ranges within “normal” (at least for Berlin) distance to the campus, i.e. taking 20-40 minutes by public transport and walking to get there. Given that the availability and prices frequently change we recommend to consult your standard hotel booking platforms and look in the areas of Zehlendorf-Steglitz (S1, Bus 112), Wannsee-Potsdam (Bus 118, S7, S1, regional train RE1) or Klein Machnow-Stahnsdorf (Bus 622). A list of possible hotels can be found at the end of this document.

Reimbursement Scheme

All physically attending participants are eligible for the reimbursement of incurred accommodation, meals, and local travel expenses in the country where the meeting takes place is paid as one item known as daily allowance.

During the training school all participants must sign the attendance list for each day to be considered eligible for reimbursement.

The daily allowance considers the participant’s travel start and end dates and hours. The daily allowance rate is determined based on the country where the event takes place [Germany 212 EUR/day].

No invoices for accommodation, meals, and local transport in the country where the meeting takes place are required. In the cases when the travel dates to and from the event cannot be determined, the participant shall provide any documentation attesting their travel dates so that the daily allowance can be correctly reimbursed.

Participants whose primary affiliation is in the country where the meeting takes place, if they travel less than 100 km (one way) in the country where the meeting takes place, are invited to claim only the part of the daily allowance intended to cover the short-distance transport expenses.

More information on transport expenses (car travel, airplane/train/bus/ferry travel) can be found in Appendix 1 – Section 3.1. COST Annotated rules document.
